OUR WASHING - LETTER.

Washington, July 24, 1895.

Sensational rumors have followed each other thick and fast since Secretary Olney came here and presided over a secret cabinet meeting. These rumors might easily have been quieted by an official statement from Secretary Olney but when a newspaper man ventured to suggest as much to Mr. Olney just before he started to return to his summer residence he was given a look that was intended to completely annihilate him, but it didn't.-black looks dosen't phase a newspaper man, if he knows his

About the same time Secretery Olney ar rived, the Spanish minister, who it will beremembered went to Massachusetts to keep in touch with the Secretary of State, also arrived in Washington. That made it certain that the cabinet meeting was connected with Spanish affairs, and the fact that the Spanish minister had been specially active, through detectives in his employ, in trying locate a filibustering expedition said to be fitting out in this country to go to Cuba, made it equally certain that a stricter enforcement of the neutrality laws was one of the particular subjects discussed.

A gentleman connected with the diplomatic corps told a friend that the Spanish minister had been urging Secretary Olney to order the arrest of all Cubans in the United States who are openly working to aid the revolution either materially or morally, including the recently elected President of the Cuban Provisional Government; also, that he should warn those Americans, including editors, who are openly sympathizing with and encouraging the revolutionists. If any public step is taken by the administration it will probably be through a proclamation issued by the Presi-

The most intelligent members of the labor organizations in Washington do not hesitate to express the opinion that Mr. Sovereign made a mistake when he issued that order to the Knights of Labor, that national bank notes must after September 1st, be refured by all members of that organization. Mr. Sovereign says that similar orders will be issued by all the other labor and kindred organizations, but other labor men do not think so. At the Treasury the whole thing is regarded as merely a bluff to call the attention of the country to the non-legal tender quality of the national bank notes. Of course Knights of Labor, or any other people, have a perfect right to refuse to accept national bank notes as money, but to be logical they ought also to refuse gold and silver certificates, which also lack the stamp of legal tender. But as all three classes of notes are convertible into legal tender upon demand at the U. S. Treasury or any of the sub-Treasuries it is difficult to see what would be gained by refusing any of them. except the ill will of those who tendered them and who would be put to the trouble of exchanging them for U. S. notes to pay their debts. No one doubts that the National banking laws need reform in lots of ways, but boycotting notes, the payment of which are guaranteed by the United States government, will not reform the system, nor injure the banks to any marked extent. It would, of course, if it became general, greatly inconvenience the banks, but would it not inconvenience the people more? Somebody has apparently blunder-

The "Pooh Bah" of the comic opera wasn't in it with Mr. Bowler, Comptroller of the Treasury, if the latter gentleman really possesses the authority he thinks he does. He has directed that the parties interested shall present arguments to him to show cause why payment of a claim for sugar bounty, which Congress has appropriated the money to pay, should not be withheld on the ground that the original sugar bounty clause of the McKinley tariff act was unconstitutional. Only the Supreme Court has heretofore assumed authority to set aside Acts of Congress approved by the President, because they were not in accord with the Court's construction of the Constitution, but now Bowler claims it. If his claim be a good one the office of Comptroller will be several points ahead of that of President when it comes to autocratic power. But it is more probable that the claim is merely founded on the heavy shadow which Comptroller Bowler imagines his immense head casts. Anyway his actions will be watched with interest by the claimants of the $5,238,000 appropriated by the last Congress to pay sugar bounties, as well as by the general public. If present laws gives him the authority he claims, those laws cannot be too quickly changed. The greatest man in this country isn't wise enough or good enough to be trusted with such autocratic and absolute power over public expenditures.

The DeLamar Company's aluminum coins don't always pass current. The absence from them of the acreaming eagle and the goddess of liberty caused a repudiation of one here the other day. An Indian brave was tendered a fifty-cent piece for cutting some wood. He scanned it closely, turning it over several times and finally, with a grunt, handed it back, saying "Ugh, No Chicken Hawk, No Sequaw, Kay Wino (no good.)" A good American four bit piece had to take its place.

It is hereby ordered that the foregoing notice of application for patent be published for the period of sixty days (ten consecutive weeks) in the Pieche weekly newspaper published at Pieche, Nevada O. H. GALLUP, Ragister. (no good.)" A good American four bit piece had to take its place.

What fools these mortals be! Two years ago the Democrats were pointing to the iron manufacturers as having cut the wages of their employees from thirty to fifty per cent and maintained that it was the result of the McKinley bill. Now that the iron industry has picked up and the manufacturers have to increase the wages of their half starved employees ten per cent they point to it exultantly as the direct result of the Wilson tariff law although in other cases they would have you understand that any increase was controlled by supply and demand. The real and apparent fact in regard The SHORTEST LINE to the increase in wages in the iron industry is that skilled laborers could not be retained at the starvation rate, and the manufacturers feared a concerted strike in all branches; therefore, to keep the employees from making a demand for an increase from twenty to thirty per cent and strike off their demand was not complied with, the employers magnanimously granted an increase of ten per cent. Cause and effect. The gold bug wool twisters propose to use this tariff argument to blind the voter to the real
